LONDON, MARCH 8.

A Correspondent informs us, that yesterday morning the Right Hon. the Earl of Hillsborough, had a grand levee at his Lordship's house in Berkley square, at which were present a great number of American merchants and colony agents, who are in hopes of obtaining still farther concessions in favour of the colonies.—And that this day there was a numerous meeting of the principal American merchants, at the King's-Arms tavern in Cornhill, on business of importance.

We have authority to assure the public, that in consequence of a late resolution, not to repeal the duties on tea, ten captains of ships from New-York, who have all the winter been waiting in expectation of such repeal, in order to take in their cargoes of British manufactures; but, in which being fatally disappointed, they immediately went to the New-York coffee-house and tore down their bills; and, agreeable to their orders, refused taking any freight for that colony, which, if the duties on tea had been repealed, they would have at least taken three hundred thousand pounds worth of British goods this spring, instead of which they are taking in ballast, and giving public notice to take passengers, as many Spitalfields and other manufacturers and mechanics as are inclined to settle in that country; where the greatest encouragement is given.—Thus, instead of taking our goods, they are taking the people who heretofore made them, such are the fatal effects of the non-repeal of the duty on tea.

The city remonstrance, it is certain, has greatly embarrassed the court; but the resolution at length come to, is this: "To "receive it in the usual way, upon the throne; to give it an an-"swer, and to communicate the remonstrance and answer to "the two houses of parliament."

MARCH 10.

Yesterday there was a privy council at St. James's, at which most of the great officers of state assisted, supposed to be in consequence of the remonstrance.

No ministers were ever so embarrassed as the present; despised and hated from one end of England to the other: Supported by corruption, and the influence of Carlton house, is it to be wondered at that fresh disputes break out every day, owing to their mismanagements and wickedness?—One hour the presumptuous citizens are to be humbled; another hour, in their rage, they are for expelling the Lord Mayor, and Lutterelizing the city. One hour they determine to receive the remonstrance, and give it an answer, to communicate the answer to the two houses of parliament, who, in return, are to present addresses of thanks. Another hour they consult their Scottish lawyer, who advises them to enquire after forms and authorities, in order to find or make a flaw, and get rid of it that way. The spirit of the sheriffs, however, has baffled the cunning and art of the Scottish lawyers;—and now they are all in a state of delirium.

Lord Mansfield and Sir Fletcher Norton (who are the court lawyers of the day) are almost hourly consulted by the present ministry, in regard to their dispute with the city.

Among the many late arrangements that have taken place in the cabinet, the following is implicitly practised by the present Premier: "That any affair, of the least importance, must be first debated in Carlton house." In consequence of this, there was a very great consultation there, at which his Grace of Grafton assisted, on Tuesday evening last; but it, after two hours debate, proving too important to be managed by the present partie quarrée, a council was summoned early on wednesday morning, which did not break up 'till the measure under debate was determined on.

MARCH 13.

Notwithstanding what has been asserted in the news-papers, that the remonstrance was this day to be delivered, we are informed, that the opinions of Lord Mansfield and Sir Fletcher Norton have been given in council, that the city remonstrance is illegal and inadmissible.

A letter from Berlin mentions, that the King of Prussia is

WHEREAS the RESOLUTIONS entered into by the Inhabitants of this Province, "to prevent the importation of EUROPEAN and EAST-INDIA GOODS and WINES, until the Colonies are restored to their ancient Freedom," will be defective, while MASTERS OF VESSELS, and other TRANSIENT PERSONS, are permitted to take an undue Advantage of the Times, to the great Detriment of the Merchant, and import Quantities of Goods and Wines for Sale; thereby rendering ineffectual the salutary Intentions of the said Resolutions. IN ORDER THEREFORE to remedy a Proceeding so pernicious in its Consequences, WE, the under-written, do hereby agree, that we will not, upon any Consideration, employ or freight any Vessel (except such as are chartered and shall arrive by the first of July next) or sell any Produce of this Colony to or for any MASTER of Vessel or TRANSIENT PERSON, who shall refuse to STORE or RESHIP, by the first Opportunity, the Articles by them imported, or who shall even attempt, in any Manner, to dispose of them in this Province, until a general Importation takes place.

RUN AWAY from the Subſcriber, in JULY laſt,

A Likely, well-made, black NEGRO FELLOW named TOM, about 5 Feet 6 Inches high; was ſome Time ago brought from Wilmington in Virginia, to Salisbury in North-Carolina, thence ſent to Charles-Town, there ſold by Mr. William Glen to Mr. Francis Roſe, and afterwards ſold at George-Town, where I bought him: It is likely he may be gone to, or harboured by ſome evil-minded Perſon, at ſome of the above Places: I hereby offer a Reward of FIFTY POUNDS to whoever will prove his being ſo harboured, to be paid on Conviction of the Offender; or TWENTY POUNDS to whoever will deliver the ſaid Run away to me, or to the Warden of the Work-Houſe in Charles-Town.

THOMAS GODFREY.

RAN AWAY the 16th of June laſt, a tall, likely Country-born, artful, ſly NEGRO FELLOW, named NED, wears his Hair down his Cheeks, ſpeaks ſlow, and will deceive Perſons attempting to take him, by ſaying he belongs to ſome other Perſon: He formerly belonged to the Eſtate of Col. FIFTY POUNDS Currency will be paid for bringing him to me, or the Warden of the Work-Houſe: And, as I have Reaſon to believe, that he is harboured by ſome villainous white Perſon or Perſons, or free Negroes, or has been ſhipped off to Barbados, or elſewhere, I will pay ONE HUNDRED POUNDS Currency, for ſufficient Proof to convict any white Perſon of either Offence, in any Court in this Province; and TWENTY POUNDS Currency, for Proof of his being harboured by a free Negro, or FIVE POUNDS, if by a Slave.——And, that no Perſons may be afraid to take him, thinking the Property in Diſpute, they, by examining the Records of the Court, may be ſatisfied that I received £.350, beſides Coſts of Suit, for his being harboured before. Pleas-Office, April 18th, 1770.

printing some manifestos so privately, that different compositors were employed to set the press, so that none could tell what it meant, and the copies are all counted off and secured by the King himself.

Notwithstanding what has been pretended to the contrary, we can assure the public, that the account in our paper of the sheriffs reception and speech to the King, with his Majesty's answer thereto, is true; with these additional circumstances. Whilst the sheriffs were waiting on Wednesday, Lord Denbigh came up to the city remembrancer, and asked him whether the address, &c. was signed and sealed; of how it was authenticated? The remembrancer said, he was a city officer, and that it was no part of his office to give Lord Denbigh an answer to his question. Lord Denbigh then went to Mr. Sheriff Townsend, and asked him, whether the business which brought him here was not new and singular; and whether the city had ever presented a remonstrance to a King before? Mr. Townsend replied with another question. Did ever a King of England before turn a deaf ear to the petitions of 60,000 freeholders, and his back on those who presented them? Lord Denbigh then asked, what made a corporate act? Mr. Townsend laughing, answered, an act of the corporation to be sure.

On Thursday evening the sheriffs received the following letter from Lord Weymouth:

"Gentlemen, St. James's, March 8, 1770.

"The King commands me to inform you, in consequence of the message which you brought yesterday to St. James's, that he is always ready to receive applications from any of his subjects; but as the present case of address, remonstrance and petition, seems entirely new, I am commanded to enquire of you, in what manner it is authenticated, and what the nature of the assembly was, in which this measure was adopted?—When you furnish ME with answers to these questions, I shall signify to you his Majesty's further pleasure. I am, Gentlemen, your most obedient humble servant,

WEYMOUTH."

Yesterday at noon, at twenty minutes after twelve, the sheriffs went to St. James's. About one, Lord Bolingbroke, the Lord in waiting, came. The remembrancer told him, that the sheriffs of London were attending his Majesty's pleasure and that they required an audience. Some time after Lord Bolingbroke came out, and enquired of the sheriffs whether he was to tell his Majesty that they came with a fresh message, or with a message? The sheriffs answered, with a message. Soon after the two secretaries of state, Lord Rochford and Lord Weymouth, came to the sheriffs. Lord Weymouth asked them, "Whether they had received his letter, which was written by his Majesty's order?"

Sheriffs. "We have."

Lord Weymouth. "His Majesty desires to know, whether you come in consequence of that letter; or whether you come on any fresh business?"

Sheriffs. "We come in consequence of that letter."

Lord Weymouth. "Would it not be more proper to send an answer in writing through me?"

Sheriffs. "We act ministerially. As sheriffs of London we have a right to an audience; and cannot communicate to any other person than the King, the subject of our message."

Lord Weymouth. "I do not dispute your right to an audience; but would it not be better and more accurate to give your message to me in writing?"

Sheriffs. "We know the value and consequence of the citizens right to apply immediately to the King, and not to a third person; and we do not mean that any of their rights and privileges shall be betrayed by our means."

His Majesty's levee began at a quarter past two, at which time the two secretaries came to the sheriffs, and Lord Weymouth said, "His Majesty understanding that you come ministerially, authorized with a message from the city of London, will see you as soon as the levee is over."

As soon as the levee was over, the sheriffs were introduced into the King's closet. The King did not, as usual, receive them alone, but Lord Gower, Lord Rochford and Lord Weymouth were present. Mr. Sheriff Townsend addressed his Majesty in these words:

"May it please your Majesty,

"When we had last the honour to appear before your Majesty, your Majesty was graciously pleased to promise an ANSWER by one of your Majesty's principal secretaries of state; but we had yesterday QUESTIONS proposed to us by Lord Weymouth. In answer to which we beg leave humbly to inform your Majesty, that the application which we make to your Majesty, we make as sheriffs of the city of London, by the direction of the livery in common-hall legally assembled. The address, remonstrance, and petition, to be presented to your Majesty, by their chief magistrate, is the act of the citizens of London in their greatest court; and is ordered by them to be properly authenticated as their act."

To which his Majesty was most graciously pleased to reply, in these most gracious and condescending words to the city of London:

"I will consider of the answer you have given me."

Whereupon the sheriffs withdrew.

When the sheriffs went into the closet, the city remembrancer, according to his office and duty, would have attended them; but Lord Bolingbroke (like a Swiss porter) rudely shoved him back; insisting upon it, that he had not a right to go in, and should not enter there. When the sheriff's audience was ended, the remembrancer, like a man, an Englishman, and a worthy officer of a great and powerful city, very spiritedly and properly told Lord Bolingbroke, that his Lordship had done wrong; for that as remembrancer, attending the sheriffs, he had a right to enter the closet with the sheriffs. Lord Bolingbroke said, it might perhaps be so; but that he had never been in waiting on such an occasion before, and hoped he never should again.

The opponents to the remonstrance say, "The constitution of the city of London is formed upon the model of the nation's. Its aldermen are its supreme deliberative council, the common-council its commons, the freemen the body of the people. The latter delegate their whole power to the two former, whom they chuse by election, and in that single article consists the whole power of the freemen of London as a body. The common-council, as the representatives of the freemen, had the care of the police committed to their hands, and they had the sole right of addressing the King, Lords, and Commons, in the name of their constituents, when they thought the interest of the kingdom, as well as that of the city concerned. This right they could not, in the nature of things, re-transfer to their electors, nor call the latter to any share of their councils as a deliberate body. They cannot legally authorize the mayor to call the livery, who are no more than freemen, to assist them, no more than the house of commons can address the King to assemble the body of the people. The only occasion upon which the mayor can legally convene the livery, is upon a day of election of city officers, to which, through custom, and an act of parliament of the 11th of George I. they have a right; but it is only the right they possess as a body. They represent nobody—they have no constituents—and all their meetings in Guildhall, except in cases of election, are ILLEGAL."

CHARLES-TOWN, MAY 10.

ALL the late English Papers are stuffed with Paragraphs, to induce a Belief, that a Rupture between Great-Britain and some other European Powers is not very distant: But the original Design of those Pieces seems to have been, neither more nor less, than to draw the Attention of the Nation from what more immediately concerns themselves; and therefore, we have omitted inserting any of them in this Gazette. The very first of those Paragraphs appeared in a well-known ministerial Paper; whence (as we Printers are too apt to catch at news Things, without immediately considering the Intent of the Publication) it was eagerly copied, as something new, into others; and thence fertile Politicians have made many Improvements. It is however clear, that, no European Power whatever, is, at present, in a Condition, or hath shewn the least Inclination, to enter into a War with England; so that, if such an Event should happen, it must be only thro' the Machinations of the Friends to the Stuart Family, who may probably be privy to some hellish Plot, for once more attempting to introduce the Pretender into Britain.

There cannot be a more striking Proof of the Virtue and Patriotism, and the determined Resolution of our Merchants to persevere in the most strict Observance of the Non-Importation Agreement, than their having, by Letter (since the Arrival of the Swallow Packet-Boat) solicited the General Committee, to appoint proper Persons to attend the opening of all Goods hereafter imported, and see that the Articles agree with the Invoices; and also to cause the Committee of Inspection to examine weekly the several Packages of Goods already stored. In Consequence of this Application, the Committee of Inspection were directed to proceed upon the Examination of the stored Goods, which they did last Wednesday.

A Part of the Negroes lately imported here, are, agreeable to the Resolutions, re-shipped from this Province, and gone for Georgia; whither the rest will soon follow.

Last Friday His Majesty's Ship Fowey, with Sir William Draper, Knight of the Bath, &c. and His Majesty's Sloop Martin, with His Excellency Governor Tryon, on board, sailed for North-Carolina.

On the 5th of last Month the Wife of one Edward Thomas, who lately came from the Northward, and settled at Ninety-Six, was delivered of a Son, in the 69th Year of her Age, her last Son being then Twenty-six Years old.—May we not hence presume, the District of Ninety-Six, to be far superior to Bath, or other usual Places of Resort in Europe, or the Northern Colonies, for restoring Health and Vigour? Would not our Sick then, by going thither, save much Money, spent in Rhode-Island, &c. and at the same Time become better acquainted with their own Country?

Yesterday embarked for London, in the Ship Heart-of-Oak, Captain Gunn, Robert Williams, jun. Esq; Master Williams, Mr. William Roper, jun. and Lachlan McIntosh, Esq;
